City to buy downtown property

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

The Granite City Council passed an ordinance Tuesday night authorizing the start of eminent domain proceedings to acquire property in the 2000 block of Madison and Grand avenues. After selection of the St. Louis firm of Polletti and Associates as appraiser of the property, and Granite City-based Coldwell Banker Star Realtors Inc. as the city's representative in negotiations with property owners, the council unanimously passed the ordinance.

It sets into motion the process which the city hopes will result in a major retail development on the block bounded by Madison and Grand avenues, 20th and 21st streets.

Seventh Ward Alderman Sandy Crites and 2nd Ward Alderman Jim Miller abstained from voting, citing possible conflicts of interest.

When questioned by 1st Ward Alderman Casmer Skubish, Director of Economic Development Alan

Two phases to property purchase

According to Assistant City Attorney Susan Bacon, there are basically two phases to the procedure of acquiring private property for a public purpose: the negotiation phase and the litigation phase.

After an appraiser and negotiator are selected, the appraiser places a value on the property taking into consideration the present zoning, the probable rezoning and the highest and best use of the land.

The offer of fair market value is then communicated to the property owner in writing, with a specific date for acceptance.

If efforts to reach an agreement fail, a petition for condemnation is filed with the circuit court, initiating the litigation phase.

Man get 10 years in police shoot-out

A 34-year-old Venice man was sentenced to 10 years in a state prison Friday on an attempted murder charge stemming from a 1987 shoot-out with Venice and Madison police.

Kevin Clay Garrett received the sentence from Associate Judge J. Lawrence Keshner.

Garrett was charged with the attempted murder of Madison police officer Richard Ballew and former Venice police officer Dan McKinney on March 10, 1987 the day after he fired on the officers in a lot behind Curly's Dining, 1018 Broadway, Venice. During the shoot-out, which followed a foot chase across the Madison railroad yards, Garrett was shot in the leg by one of the police officers.

According to police reports, Garrett had fired two shots at Ballew and was aiming his pistol at McKinney when Diablo, a then-newly acquired Venice police dog, charged at Garrett, knocking him to the ground before he could fire. McKinney and Diablo joined the Pontoon Beach Police Department about three months after the incident.

Diablo's action, the dog's first encounter with a lawbreaker, has resulted in the dog's and McKinney's nomination for the prestigious German Shepherd Dog Club of St. Louis' 1991 Outstanding K-9 Service Award for suspect apprehension, controlled substance detection, evidence detection and tracking. The winner of that award will be announced today (Sunday) during a luncheon in St. Louis County.

Garrett had entered an open guilty plea to the attempted murder charge July 15 as jury selection in his trial was set to begin.

Charges against Garrett were initially dismissed Nov. 18, 1987, by then Associate Judge Charles

Pedestrian, 82, is struck by car

An 82-year-old Madison woman was seriously injured when she was struck by a pickup truck while attempting to cross Nameoki Road 200 feet away from the nearest crosswalk Friday afternoon.

The driver of the truck, Kevin L. Hayes, 32, of the 2800 block of Fortune Drive, Granite City, was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol. According to a police report, his blood alcohol content was measured at .18. A blood alcohol level of .10 or more is considered legally intoxicated in the state of Illinois.

Laverne Harrington, of the 1700 block of 2nd Street, Madison, was struck by Hayes' brown and tan Ford F150 Ranger pickup truck after she stepped into traffic on Nameoki Road at 3:45 p.m. A crowd of about 40 bystanders watched as paramedics from the Granite City Fire Department placed a splint on her right leg, treated cuts to her face and head and placed her on a stretcher before taking her to St. Elizabeth Medical Center. She was later transferred by ambulance to St. Mary's Hospital in Clayton, and admitted to the surgical intensive care unit. She was listed in listed in serious but stable condition Friday night.

Hayes told police he was southbound on Nameoki Road, approaching the intersection with Feibing Road, and changed lanes into the right hand turn lane. He said Harrington stepped off the curb and into his traffic lane near the entrance to the Central Bank parking lot. He applied his brakes, but could not avoid hitting her.

The 51st annual meeting of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce on Thursday evening included installation of Ben Johannpeter of Granite City Steel as president and presentation of the annual community service award to Bill Winter of the Granite City Press-Record/Journal.

An inspirational address was given by Edward M. Schroeder, a widely-honored Granite City school teacher, who discussed "Survival in the 21st century."

The dinner was held at the Sunset Hills Country Club in Edwardsville.

Johannpeter succeeds John E. Lee III as chamber president. Both gave talks to the gathering. Other new officers for the 1991-92 year are Paul Ruckiewicz, first vice president; Jim Seitz, second vice president; and Greg Mathes, treasurer.

R. C. Bush is executive vice president.

The installation of officers was begun by Women's Division retiring president Linda Holder as she passed the presidential gavel to Linda Reish.

Some of the chamber's goals for the coming year include creation and retention of permanent and desirable employment, stimulating small business development, developing pride in the Tri-Cities area through community projects, assisting law enforcement officials in the design and implementation of programs to reduce crime in the area, and assisting in the maintenance and improvement of the quality of education.

The community service award was presented to Winter for "unfailing efforts to promote growth and quality of life in the local area through a lifetime of leadership, service and dedication."

"His leadership role in the community has encompassed all facets of life, with a keen emphasis on youth activities, the business com-

First phase begins — The old streetcar supports are torn down by Keller Construction from Glen Carbon as part of the first phase in replacing the McCambridge Avenue viaduct in Madison with a new four-lane bridge. Chemical firm settles in sewer flood suit

Pfizer Inc., an East St. Louis plant and chemical company, has agreed to pay a $1.5 million settlement to the victims whose homes were flooded in October 1986 when the Metro East Sanitary District's East St. Louis pump station failed.

About 44 acres in East St. Louis and Sauget were covered with water and raw sewage in the incident, which the Federal Emergency Management Agency estimated caused between $20 million and $30 million in damages to more than 1,500 homes and businesses.

Attorney Charles J. Kolker of Belleville, who is representing the victims in a class-action suit against the MESD, said the Pfizer settlement must now be approved by Judge James Donovan of the 20th Circuit Court. Kolker said Donovan also will decide how the settlement money is divided.

Kolker has been assigned as chief counsel for all of the victims — both those who have and those who have not yet been identified — which could number as high as 10,000 people. He will hold an informational meeting at 7 p.m. Wednesday at the cafeteria of State Community College in East St. Louis. He said the claims process for victims will also be discussed at that meeting.

Pfizer, who was brought into the lawsuit as a "third-party" defendant by the MESD, allegedly dumped corrosives into the MESD storm water drainage system that corroded a flood gate at the East St. Louis American Bottoms had been added to the gate's collapse.

Kolker said the Pfizer settlement has no effect on the action still pending against the MESD or East St. Louis and the American Bottoms Treatment Facility — the other two "third-party" defendants.

The East St. Louis station failed, and failed in a lot of ways," Kolker said. "The collapse of the gate was only part of it."

After the MESD was sued, Kolker said, the MESD in turned sued Pfizer, claiming its corrosives had eaten away part of the gate.

"Pfizer, which is a long distance from the pump station, contends that by the time its corrosives got to the gate they would be too diluted to do any damage," Kolker said. "But they still agreed to settle."

If the suit goes to trial and if the jury finds in favor of the victims, Kolker said the jury's award will be reduced by the amount of the Pfizer settlement.

Shang Greathouse, president of the MESD, said he had not heard of the Pfizer settlement, but said he considered it good news.

"Maybe now, people will start realizing that thing wasn't our fault," Greathouse said.

He said East St. Louis, which had a broken treatment plant for many years, had dumped all of its raw sewage into the MESD ditches.

"It ruined our pump station. They dumped sewage and God knows what else down there and it just ate up everything we had. The gate that broke was a 50-year gate and it barely lasted 24 years. It was eaten clean through."

"As I've said all along, that failure wasn't our fault, and I won't take a nickel's worth of blame for it."

Greathouse said American Bottoms had been added to the suit because it had allegedly failed to close a flood gate on the river that contributed to the back-up pressure at the MESD's pump station.

Spokesmen for American Bottoms and East St. Louis declined comment.

A neighbor woman told Billick she had found some of the items in her juvenile stepson's bedroom, and they were returned to Billick.

An investigation was continuing.

Man gets 70-years for invasion, assault

By Bonita Tillman
Staff writer

A 31-year-old Fairview Heights man who assaulted and terrorized a Fairview Heights couple before stealing their car has been sentenced to 70 years in prison.

Keith Gruver was eligible for a 90-year term. He originally was charged with attempted murder, aggravated criminal sexual assault, home invasion and two counts of armed robbery against the couple.

However, he pleaded guilty to all but the armed robbery charges on the first day of jury selection for his trial last August.

Assistant State's Attorney Dennis Hatch, who asked for the maximum sentence, but said Friday he was satisfied with the outcome.

"We thought originally that he was eligible for 120 years, but the judge said only 90," Hatch said. "I feel very satisfied with the sentence. I feel like the judge came down hard on him because of his prior record."

He cited the short period of time that Gruver was free before committing other crimes. Gruver was charged in Tennessee with felony assault with intent to rape in 1977, but pleaded guilty to a lesser charge. He was sentenced to 11 months and 29 days in the workhouse.

In 1978, he was sentenced to 25 years in prison for rape and three years for grand larceny in Tennessee.

In 1988, he was charged with a felony for trying to escape the workhouse and sentenced to an additional year in jail.

New Robinson Steel plant called 'a boost' in many ways

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

Local officials are saying a new $10 million steel processing plant, scheduled to begin production in April 1992, will give a major boost to the area's slumping steel industry.

Robinson Steel Company, of East Chicago, Ind., recently began construction on the 100,000 square foot facility, expected to have a production capacity of approximately 200,000 tons of steel per year, at Tri-City Port District's Harbor Side Industrial Park.

The plant is expected to create 30-35 new jobs.

"This will have a significant impact not only on jobs, but Robinson is a significant customer of our main industry, Granite City Steel," according to RC Bush, executive director of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce.

"It strengthens Granite City Steel as well as being an investment in our local economy."

"The more of this type of industry we can attract," the stronger the investment in Granite City Steel, Bush said.

Bob Maxwell, manager of public relations at Granite City Steel, agreed. He said he expects Robinson to be a major purchaser of steel from Granite City Steel, and said the close proximity of the two companies should benefit both.

Port District General Manager Bob Wydra said Robinson will use the equivalent of two weeks of Granite City Steel production, at a minimum, over the course of a year.

The Robinson project is regarded as extremely timely, coming on the heels of an announcement Sept. 1 that National Steel Corp., parent company of Granite City Steel, lost more than $100 million in the first three quarters of this year. That announcement was made by Ronald Doerr, president and chief operating officer of National Steel Corp.

"Our performance has been lousy, our profits have vanished and our cash and borrowing power could do the same," Doerr has been quoted as saying.

Paul Labriola, executive vice president and chief operating officer of Robinson Steel, said the "immediate availability of high quality steel from Granite

Planned Parenthood investigation ends

By Bonita Tillman
Staff writer

A state agency's investigation into alleged misconduct by a former doctor at Planned Parenthood Inc. in Fairview Heights is over, but where it will lead is not yet certain.

The investigation by the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services was prompted by a 15-year-old girl who claimed that the doctor made improper sexual contact with her during a gynecological exam in March.

Ed McManus, a DCF spokesman, said the agency completed its investigation about a month ago. A report was turned over to St. Clair County State's Attorney Robert Haida. Planned Parenthood officials, the doctor and the youth who filed the complaint.

He would not reveal the contents of that report.

Haida said the case is still open in his office, but he would not comment on whether charges will be filed.

Fairview Heights Police Chief Roger Richards said there was nothing new on the case.

Paula Gianino, executive director of Planned Parenthood, said she has heard nothing additional on the local investigation since early September.

"I think on some level — though we're really not aware of the degree — they are continuing," she said. "I haven't heard any official determination from the police department on how they plan to proceed."

"I'm still waiting to see what the outcome is, but I do know the physician still has no charges filed against him," Gianino added.

The doctor, who worked at Planned Parenthood's Fairview Heights clinic, was released after the allegation was made in March.

Alton Belle is sued over waste collection service

By Bonita Tillman
Staff writer

A waste collection company filed a lawsuit Thursday against the Alton Belle Casino Co. and an employee to force the gambling riverboat to pay for collection services it contracted to pay.

Waste Management of Metro-East said Michael McGrew of the Alton Belle signed an agreement on Aug. 16 for Waste Management to collect trash at the riverboat six days a week at a cost of $350 a month.

The service was to begin Sept. 24, but the riverboat's officials have not paid the bill and have indicated they will continue to ignore the bill, the suit states.

John Reichert, Alton Belle marketing director, said the company would have no comment on the pending litigation.

Attorney J. Thomas Long of Godfrey represents the riverboat but was on vacation and unavailable for comment.

McGrew could not be reached for comment.

Waste Management is seeking an amount under $10,000 from the Alton Belle and McGrew for the alleged breach of contract.

The Alton Belle opened in September as the first floating gambling casino in Illinois. In its first few weeks of operation, it earned nearly half a million dollars in revenues.

Clowning 101

Class helps kids find the clown inside themselves

By Martin Richter
Staff writer

Julie Weir stepped to the blackboard, as 15 young clown wannabes leaned forward so as not to miss a single kernel of comic cognition.

"Be sure to wear comic underwear, because you never know when you're going to have to drop your drawers," she said. "That's the way it is with us clowns."

Weir, of Fairview Heights, has been clowning for the last four years, and currently heads a troupe of about 40 grade school-aged clowns from places like Fairview Heights, O'Fallon, Belleville and Waterloo.

During a recent Saturday Experience Class at Belleville Area College, she expounded on some of the basics of clowning for a group of youngsters from throughout the area.

Weir helped the young Bozos and Homeys paint their faces with clown makeup, and put together wacky costumes. She taught them an essential tool of the trade — making balloon animals — and shared tips on jokes and clown lore.

She even told the kids where to look for such clown accessories as silly hats, old clothes and funky props.

"These are the two most important words in a clown's life," she said, writing on the board, "GARAGE SALE."

Weir also stressed the importance of finding a clown name. She said she thought of hers while driving down the street.

"It just hit me like a ton of bricks," she said. "Simple, because life isn't."

The oldest students in the class, two women from the Red Bud area who brought their kids, already had some experience as clowns. They volunteered their clown names — "Prissy" and "Bumbles," — but declined to give their real names.

"We enjoy clowning because you can act goofy, and nobody knows who you are," Prissy said.

"Yeah," Bumbles added. "We always act goofy, and now we have an excuse."

Angie Saia of Belleville, 14, said she was considering using "Clumsy" as her clown name. And she said she might be interested in doing volunteer work as a clown.

"When you're a clown, you can screw up, you don't feel so embarrassed," said Erica Bournstein of Waterloo, 11.

State's drug overdose deaths up 300 percent from '80 to '89

The number of drug overdose deaths in the state nearly tripled from 1980 to 1989, a look at accidental death figures indicates.

The deaths account for the bulk of accidental poisonings recorded by the Illinois Department of Public Health during the 10-year period.

By comparison, all other types of accidental poisonings, including such things as carbon monoxide suffocation or ingestion of cleaning fluids, remain stable.

Trends aren't as evident locally, but the numbers are still depressing.

Last month, six of 19 deaths considered by Madison County coroner's jury were drug-related, said Ralph Baahmann Jr., chief deputy coroner.

"One of those was an infant that died as a result of cocaine abuse by its mother," Baahmann said. "And another one was a heroin overdose. So don't think heroin is a thing of the past."

"I think it would not be unreasonable to say that generally we do encounter more incidents of drug overdoses than we did 10 to 20 years ago in Madison County."

Baahmann said he suspects overdoses are split "about 50-50" between illicit and prescription drugs.

Improvements in treating overdose cases before patients arrive at hospitals has kept the problem from being worse, Baahmann said.

Baahmann records overdose cases with a national service called Project DAWN. A representative of the Drug Abuse Warning Network said Madison County had six overdose deaths recorded between April and September 1990, the most recent time frame available.

The increase in overdose deaths reflects increased drug use during the early and mid-1980s, said Joseph Gfoerer, a researcher at the National Institute on Drug Abuse in Rockville, Md.

"It could also be that people are using more often or more intensely," Gfoerer said. "Also, there could be more use of drugs in combination."

Statewide increases are reflected across the country, according to the National Safety Council.

"Most of the increase in poisonings occurred in the adult years, ages 25 to 44, and in the categories that include the illegal drugs cocaine and heroin," said Alan Hoskin, manager of the National Safety Council statistics department in Chicago.

While national and state studies indicate there is a clear trend in increased overdose deaths, it is not readily apparent to everyone.

Sally Day, charge nurse in the emergency room of Alton Memorial Hospital, said the hospital staff has not noticed any increase. She estimated that no more than "1-2 percent" of the patients in the emergency room are overdose cases.

Overall, accidental deaths declined 21 percent from 1980 to 1990, despite a 64 percent jump in the national accidental poisonings death rate, the Safety Council said.

The number of deaths from accidental poisoning, except for gas poisonings, more than doubled from 1967 to 1990, increasing from 2,506 to 5,700. All other categories of accidental deaths except choking, had significant decreases since 1967.

New addresses add zip to military mail

In a move to improve delivery to service men and women stationed overseas, new military APO and FPO addresses will be phased in over the next year.

Overseas military addresses are being standardized so that the last two lines conform to addressing practices for other U.S. mail.

"Mail is the critical link to our service men and women overseas," said Postmaster General Anthony M. Frank. "The new military addresses will help us speedup mail by allowing letters to be processed on the same new high-tech sorting equipment as domestic mail."

New ultra-fast optical character readers and bar-code machines are capable of sorting about 30,000 letters per hour.

The following samples illustrate the new format:

Study finds genetic link between blacks, glaucoma

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

Black Americans are five times more likely than white Americans to suffer from glaucoma, according to a recently published study by Johns-Hopkins Medical Center in Baltimore.

This study appears to show that blacks are genetically predisposed to develop glaucoma, an eye disease which can lead to vision impairment and even blindness.

This latest study comes as no surprise to Dr. John Galanis, an assistant professor of ophthalmology at the Bethesda Eye Institute in St. Louis.

"We have been trying to raise awareness of this problem both in the community and among primary care physicians," Galanis said. "Many people have relatives who went blind as a result of glaucoma and may be afraid to find out they have it. But this is not 30 years ago, and the diagnosis is not a bleak as it once was."

Galanis has participated in a number of studies involving African-Americans in the Metropolitan

St. Louis Area as well as among Caribbean islanders.

"It's long been known that glaucoma runs in families in all races, but in African-Americans it seemed to be much stronger," Galanis said. "Also, in blacks, a larger number of cases resulted in blindness."

"It used to be thought that it was not being detected as early in blacks or that maybe the eye care given blacks was not as good as given whites, and there may be something to that. But, now it is clear that blacks are not only genetically more prone to get glaucoma, but also genetically more susceptible to damage and blindness as a result of glaucoma."

Galanis said some of the best studies of genetics and glaucoma involved the ex-slave populations of Caribbean islands. Among the islanders, he said, it was found that between seven and 10 percent of the people develop glaucoma.

"From there it was possible to trace the ancestry of the Caribbean groups back to a certain area of Africa. In surveying the African populations, it was found that the glaucoma rate among the African descendants was almost identical to the rate of the Caribbean descendants. This makes a very strong case for a genetic link."

Once diagnosed, about 90 percent of glaucoma cases can be treated with eye drops or other medical therapy, Galanis said. The other 10 percent may lose some eyesight, he said, but even that can often be stabilized and controlled with eye drops.

"It's fairly easy to administer eye drops, so we're not talking about an involved treatment," Galanis said.

Marijuana, either smoking it or taking a derivative of it, was once studied as a treatment for glaucoma, and Galanis said it did have a positive effect.

"But, it has what most people would consider adverse side effects and it is not as effective in treating glaucoma as our current medications," he said.

The most effective method of diagnosing glaucoma, Galanis said, is to look into the eye itself. But, he said, measuring the pressure of the eyes is the major method of diagnosing glaucoma.

Bethesda is involved in a number of community screening programs and, Galanis said, a pressure check should be a part of every complete eye exam.

"I have some very strong feelings about the so-called 'complete eye exams' offered by the discount type of eye clinics," Galanis said. "I have a queasy feeling that they are rather cursory examinations."

Galanis pointed out that ophthalmologists have to go through college, medical school and residency, and then three to four years of specialized training while optometrists go to three years of school after college. "Don't get me wrong, optometrists are good for the types of things glasses and contact lenses — they do," Galanis said. "But since we are talking about a potentially blinding disease, a visit to a doctor may be called for to detect it."

If a person has a family history of glaucoma, Galanis said the person should be tested for glaucoma every year. A person who doesn't have a family history of glaucoma should be tested every three years, he said.

Fairview Heights art festival gets mixed reviews

By Liz Quirin
Staff writer

The weather was perfect in Fairview Heights for the fourth annual Midwest Salute to the Masters, but reviews for the weekend art festival were mixed.

The festival was considered a success by its organizers, sponsors and some of the 100 artists who exhibited their work for the people gathered to browse in the five tents of art work.

Other artists gave the weekend mixed reviews; some were pleased and others said they would not return.

"That's the way it is in every show," said Susan Burgess, executive director of the art festival.

"Some artists did extremely well, and others did not," Burgess said. "On the whole, sales in this area are below what they are in other areas."

Sandy Greiner Meyer from Quincy has brought her drawings and watercolors to the art festival every year.

"People who have been here, come back every year," Meyer said. "I hope they do it again."

Meyer won a second-place ribbon in the Best-of-Show category.

By Sunday afternoon she had sold 12 works, eight of them small.

"Lots of artists with large works are not doing as well," said Meyer's husband, "It just depends on what you carry."

Robert J. Farrell of Fort Atkinson, Wis., brought the sterling silver pieces he had made to the fair. He took a first-place ribbon, but he sold very little.

"I won't be back," Farrell said. "I can't come just for the ribbons; the people thought St. Louis clients would come over here, but they aren't here."

Barbara Ahrens from Madison, Wis., said she'd had an average day Saturday, and more people on Sunday. But she wasn't selling many of her collages.

"Maybe it's the economy in the area," Ahrens said. "This is my first year, and the quality of the show is great."

Saturday probably had more people, but artists made more sales on Sunday, Burgess said. Burgess estimated about 20,000 people attended the two-day event, but said she had no way of knowing how much money artists made because each artist handled his or her own sales.

Overall, Burgess said the show went well.

"The judges commented that this was the best quality for a non-gallery show they'd seen."

V. Romani Jr. ruling that Garrett had not been brought to trial within the 180 days allowed under the "speedy trial" rule. That decision was appealed by the Illinois Attorney General's staff who was prosecuting the case because Garrett's brother was an employee of the Madison County State's Attorney's office at the time.

Meanwhile the Attorney General's office began working with U.S. Attorney Frederick J. Hess and his office investigating possible federal charges in the incident. On Feb. 18, 1988, a federal grand jury indicted Garrett on one count of possession of a firearm by a felon and Garrett was arrested by Madison police four days later.

The federal charge was based on Garrett's prior convictions on federal rape and felony theft charges.

Garrett was convicted on the federal charge and in federal custody until early July. While Garrett was in federal custody, the Illinois Supreme Court overturned Romani's decision and reinstated attempted murder charges against Garrett.

Local political and business people gathered at the site of the new Robinson Steel Processing plant for a ground-breaking City Steel" was a key ingredient in the decision to locate in this area.

"(Robinson Steel) fits in perfectly with our goals of developing port district property, creating jobs and stimulating the local economy," Wydra said. He said he hopes the addition of Robinson at the Harbor Side Industrial Park will attract further development there, but said there is no guarantee that will happen.

Jennifer Minor, an executive at Robinson Steel on hand at the Port District site for a ground breaking ceremony Tuesday, said the company expects the facility to open at full production capacity next April.

Dale Arnette, chairman of the port district Board of Commissioners, said, "Cooperation between the public and private sectors is what makes a project like Robinson Steel possible."

"State, county and local officials work together well in southwestern Madison County," Arnette said. The Illinois Department of Transportation, Madison County, and the city of Granite City all provided financial assistance to help lure Robinson to the area. Robinson's industrial customers include producers of rail cars, construction equipment, farm implements and metal buildings.

Orbals said the city has been in negotiations with a developer from Springfield for some time, and should have a redevelopment agreement prepared in about a month.

City officials have said in the past that the proposed development includes a "large pharmaceutical retailer" of the targeted property have expressed concern that the city will not deal fairly with them when acquiring the block.

Harold Cavins, a real estate broker and past president of the Granite City Board of Realtors, had expressed some concern last week about just how the property will be acquired. His wife, Marian, owns property in the target area.

Cavins said the only time any of the property owners in the block have been contacted by the city was more than a year ago, when the city indicated it would like to have an option on the property.

"When are they going to contact the property owners?" Cavins asked. "They are considering using 'quick-take' powers, and they haven't even negotiated with the property owners."

"I think they're playing 'dirty pool,' talking about (quick take) without even negotiating with us," Cavins had said.

Cavins said that, even though much of the property on the block is carried on the tax rolls as residential, it is actually prime commercial property, and that value should be considered when offers are made.

"How many of us can afford to fight in court three or four or five days, paying an attorney for his time?" Cavins asked, adding that many of the residents are elderly and on a fixed income.

But Cavins said Friday that, because the city hired a Granite City realtor to handle the negotiations, "I feel the council will act in good faith in the negotiations."

Skubish warned the council Tuesday not to "be abusive" in its use of eminent domain proceedings.

According to Assistant City Attorney Susan Bacon, the law places very stringent requirements on the city in the proceedings, to ensure that the property owners get fair treatment.

Purchase

The petition must include the purpose and necessity for acquisition of the property. The property owner can then challenge the action by filing a motion to dismiss or traverse.

If the judge finds that the city has fulfilled all requirements, the case is set for trial, either by jury or judge, and expert testimony is used to establish the purchase price. In the event it is necessary to acquire the property immediately to proceed with redevelopment plans, the city may file a motion for immediate vesting of title, also known as "quick take." If the city uses quick-take powers, the property owner is given preliminary compensation, and property ownership is conveyed to the city while the final purchase price is litigated.

Skid marks behind Hayes' truck were measured at 90 feet, according to a police report.

Two Granite City police cars, a Madison County Sheriff's Deputy, two ambulances and a fire truck responded to the accident at the busy intersection.

In a separate incident less than an hour earlier, a 3-year-old Niedringhaus School boy sustained minor injuries when he was struck by a black 1986 Pontiac Fiero while crossing State Street after school. Michael W. Holthous, of the 2700 block of Iowa Street, was hit when he ran into the crosswalk at 2:55 p.m. He told a police officer he thought the safety patrolman had stopped traffic before he entered the street, but the patrolman said he had not yet done so.

Holthous sustained minor cuts and bruises and refused treatment.

The driver of the Fiero, Brad A. Dickey, 16, of the 100 block of Springfield Drive in Mitchell, was not charged.

Experts will judge chili

Like fine wine, good chili should not be wasted on the untrained palate, experts said. "I take very small bites so I can analyze all the spices and how they make me feel inside," said Alton City Treasurer Dan Beiser.

Tasting those spices that enhance the fire is what it's about.

Beiser is among 36 official judges signed up for the second annual World Championship Chili Cookoff Oct. 19 at Gordon Moore Park in Alton.

Wood River Mayor Leroy Emerick, who is also a judge in the cookoff, said the real test of a chili's greatness lies not only in how it tastes but in its capacity for making the judge's hair stand on end.

"If it makes my hair stand up, then it's good chili. That's why bald guys generally make poor judges," Emerick said.

Emerick, who first learned the fine art of chili tasting at Taylor's chili parlor on East Broadway in Alton many years ago, said chili is the best drink to have when judging a spicy chili.

Beiser, apparently a purist in these matters, said he prefers water.

This year's cookoff has attracted three times as many contestants as last year's, organizers said. It will be held at the Muenstermann Pavilion from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. and is sponsored by Pride Inc., the Alton Telegraph and Pepsi-Cola Alton Bottling Inc.

Tickets, $4 for adults and $2 for children, are available at the Telegraph, 111 E. Broadway, Alton, IL 62002, or at Pride, 122 E. Broadway, by calling Pride Executive Director Jack Barban at 463-3525.

Sixty-eight individuals, clubs and businesses are expected to compete this year. Last year, there were 21 contestants.

Barban said the group hopes to raise about $8,000 from the event.

"I firmly believe that the first three or four bites have to be so hot that you can't taste the spices. To me, chili is not fully cooked until it is scalding hot. After that it kind of mellows," Mark Utterback said.

Utterback, chairman of the Pride cookoff committee, is senior vice president at the Bank of Alton and a chili connoisseur.

The cost for the two-day session is $8, and may be paid on the first day of class.

The class is open to those 55 years of age and older.

Change those smoke-alarm batteries, fire officials urge

When the Granite City Fire Department answered a fire call at a apartment house in the 2000 block of Missouri Avenue last year, it was the noise that bothered Capt. Bobby Bell.

It isn't the yelling adults, screaming kids or crying babies that bothered him, although they were loud.

What bothered Bell was a sound he didn't hear — a smoke alarm.

With residential smoke detectors down more than 85 percent of homes the problem is no longer homes without smoke detectors. It's homes with smoke detectors that don't work, according to the International Association of Fire Chiefs.

Fire chiefs say at least a third of residential smoke detectors don't work because of old or missing batteries, a factor that contributes to many of the 6,000 deaths and 130,000 injuries caused each year by fire.

A smoke detector — a home's most effective defense against fire — is simply being taken for granted, often to the residents' peril.

In the St. Louis area this year, six of the 14 fire deaths involved non-working smoke detectors. At the Missouri Avenue fire, "It turned out one of the detectors were working," Bell said.

"One lady told it kept going off while she was cooking, so it was disconnected. Some of the others just weren't working."

The fire, started by faulty wiring, turned out to be mostly smoke. Although there were at least 12 people, mostly children, in the building at the time of the fire, no one was hurt.

This October, as part of the annual "Change Your Clock, Change Your Battery" national fire safety program sponsored by the National Fire Protection Association, fire departments across the country will be challenging each other to ensure that all homes are protected by a working smoke detector. The "Change Your Clock, Change Your Battery" campaign, now in its fourth year, encourages people to make a habit of changing their smoke detector batteries every fall when they change their clocks back from daylight-saving time. This year, the time change falls on Oct. 27.

In the case of smoke detectors, routine maintenance is as simple as checking the batteries once a month and changing the batteries once a year.

Fire and burglar care experts also advise homeowners to keep an extra battery on hand should their smoke detectors begin chirping — a signal that the batteries are low — between battery changes.

A working smoke detector is especially important for providing the critical early warning necessary to escape nighttime fires since most home fires occur at night when people are sleeping.

In a survey conducted recently by Energizer batteries, half of the 1,000 respondents mistakenly believed the would be awakened by the smell of smoke in time to escape. In reality, most people die of smoke inhalation in home fires in actual burns.

"No one could die from lack of an expensive battery," said Harriet D. Slickenstaff, spokesperson for Energizer batteries.

Bell calls the Missouri Avenue fire a case call, a case call that would not have been necessary if the smoke detectors had been in working order.

"Smoke detectors save lives," Bell said. "That is painted on the side of every one of our trucks because there is no truer statement, and no better or cheaper way to save lives."

Adult craft class planned at Mounds

A "drop feathers" adult craft class is one of the programs scheduled this fall at Cahokia Mounds State Historic Site.

Instructor Jay Kussman will demonstrate how to make drop feathers and other crafts from 1 to 5 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 12. Kussman will discuss how past and present Native Americans used feathers for dress and ornament.

Participants will make their own drop feathers like those Native Americans wore in their hair and used to decorate their clothing. Kussman will teach traditional and modern wrapping and beading techniques.

He will also demonstrate the construction of feather bustles, coup sticks and fans. Kussman's featherwork has been on display at Cahokia Mounds and at special events throughout the United States.

Advance registration and a $15 fee are required for the class.

October also brings "Building the Building," a photographic essay of the construction of the new Interpretive Center, to Cahokia Mounds. The exhibit will be on display through mid-January.

Candy Day benefits blind, deaf residents

If you can read this, you're lucky: An estimated 1.5 million Americans cannot read newsprint, even with glasses. And 700,000 Americans are legally blind...30,000 go blind annually. If you can hear this on a radio or television broadcast, you are lucky: 18 million Americans are deaf; 106,000 of them in Illinois.

13.4 million Americans have a hearing impairment, with 720,000 of those persons in Illinois.

Because the gifts of sight and hearing are so precious and so irreplaceable, the 30,000 members of the more than 670 Lions Clubs in Illinois hold Candy Day each year to raise funds to support a variety of services for the blind and deaf and for the conservation of sight and hearing.

This year the Lions Club of Pontoon Beach will participate in Candy Day on Friday, Oct. 11 and Saturday, Oct. 12 under the leadership of Randy Werner, club president, and Lynn Squires, Candy Day Chairman.

Auxiliary celebrates birthday

Eagles Auxiliary 1126 celebrated the birthday of auxiliary president Del Delaney at a recent meeting at the Eagles Home, 2558 Madison Avenue. Finger foods were served at tables decorated in lavender and white. Delaney's coos, the officers' table held a large floral centerpiece and miniature balloons, with a "Happy Birthday" banner displayed above the table. She received gifts from members and the auxiliary.

The meeting was presided over by Delaney, with Conductor Barbara Modrusic placing the flag, Bible and emblem of the home at the altar, with members reciting the pledge of allegiance to the flag. Chaplain Helen Lipchik gave the opening prayer.

Secretary Vincine Zeran read four applications for membership and one re-enrollment and Florence "Fuzz" Hagnauer membership chairman, reported favorably on four applications for membership. Balloting by members was held for four new applicants.

The conductor escorted Helen Lipchik, delinquent chairman; Hagnauer, membership chairman; Ruth Jorgensen, auxiliary past president; and Vincine Zeran, Golden Eagle chairman; all chairmen for the past year — to the altar, where they were each presented certificates of achievement signed by Grand Madam President, Barbara Cyphers, 1990-91. The certificates read:

"Membership citation from Grand Aerie awarded for outstanding leadership which resulted in a net gain in the membership rolls of the auxiliary during the fiscal year 1990-91. In recognition thereof this citation of merit is given for the Grand Aerie Promotion Department with congratulations and recommendations for this merited notorious achievement." The

Certificates were then given to Jorgensen, past auxiliary president, to be placed in her President's book.

Get well cards were sent to sick members by Ann Pates. Jeannie Burton, Education Fund chairman, again reminded members of the coming bazaar and craft show to be held at the Eagles Home on October 18 and 20. Tables are available at $10. Call 797-1776.

State Education Project Chairman Barbara Modrusic announced that there will be a Halloween dance and party at the Eagles Home on Oct. 26 with admission to be $10. Finger foods and other refreshments will be served.

Plans were discussed for the Aerie annual kick-off dinner to be held at the Eagles Home on Oct. 10, with tickets to be $5 per person. Auxiliary members were asked to bring pumpkin pies. Proceeds will be used for Thanksgiving dinners.

Attendance prizes were awarded to Adele Wasylak and Marylou Wilkens.

Playground equipment dedicated

A ribbon cutting ceremony and picnic was held at noon Sept. 28 dedicating $9,000 worth of playground equipment placed by the Venice Tenant Council of the Madison County Housing Authority.

Present at the ceremony were newly appointed Madison County housing commissioner Victor Valentine, Alderman John Henry Williams, Marie Nelson, manager of Lee Wright Homes, Venice

Homes and Viola Jones Homes; Dorese Anderson; Madison County Board member Don Garrett, organizer of the Venice Tenant Council; Ella Ball, president of the Venice Tenant Council; Patricia Young, vice president; Aron Spearman, council treasurer; Myra Mitchell, sergeant-at-arms; Rose Ivy, secretary; and children playing on the new equipment.

School bus safety week set

John P. Buxton, manager of Mayflower Contract Services Inc., which provides school bus transportation for students in the Granite City and Madison School Districts, reminds everyone that the week of Oct. 20 through Oct. 26, has been set aside as National School Bus Safety Week.

"Keeping children safe is a big job — one which MCS takes very seriously," said Buxton, who oversees 80 drivers from his lot. "One of the most frequent complaints of our drivers is that other motorists do not obey the school bus stop law."

"Each time a motorist violates this law, he or she creates a real hazard for the students who are boarding or leaving the bus," Buxton noted that all motorists are required to stop for stopped school buses that are displaying flashing red lights and a stop arm.

"Sometimes drivers are not fully alert and pass a stopped bus. This is a very dangerous situation for the children, especially the younger ones who may not be watching traffic as closely as they should," he said.

In addition to being National School Bus Safety Week, the MCS School Bus Drivers Day will be celebrated on Oct. 24.

Free, three-week lecture program set on breast cancer

A free, three-week lecture program about breast cancer has been scheduled by and at the Oncology Care Center on consecutive Saturday mornings ending Oct. 19.

All lectures begin at 9 a.m. and will conclude by or before noon at the outpatient cancer center, 4000 North Illinois in Belleville.

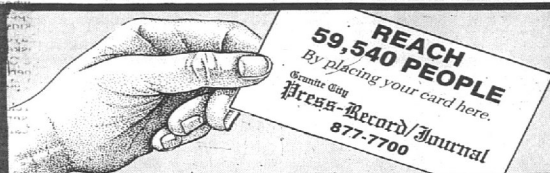

Area physicians and oncologists (cancer specialists) will present the breast cancer lecture program. All lectures will be followed by a question and answer period. Exhibits by cancer support groups and vendors of cancer-related personal care items including prostheses, wigs and clothes will be on display.

Surgery Options in Breast Cancer Treatment will be the topic for Oct. 12 at Oncology Care Center with three physicians presenting independent lectures. The first lecture will be presented at 9 a.m. by William Casperson, M.D., a surgeon, regarding mastectomy or surgical removal of a breast.

His lecture will be followed by Morris Kugler, M.D., also a surgeon, at 10 a.m. regarding lumpectomy or removal of the tumor only. Robert Wanless, M.D., a plastic surgeon, will discuss reconstructive surgery at 11 a.m. All three physicians will discuss the criteria, risk and recovery for each of these surgical procedures.

Radiation Therapy and Chemotherapy will be discussed at the Oct. 19 lecture at Oncology Care Center. Susan J. Shapiro, M.D., a radiation oncologist, will discuss radiation therapy at 9 a.m. She will discuss the length of treatment and radioactive implants or seeds.

Medical oncologists William J. Popovic, M.D., and G. Rodriguez Jr., M.D., will lead the 10 a.m. lecture regarding chemotherapy. They will discuss the criteria for treatment and Tamoxifen, a widely-prescribed, oral-hormonal chemotherapy drug. All three oncologists are on staff at the Oncology Care Center.

Salon hears convention report

Madison County Salon 53, Eight and Forty, met on Tuesday, Sept. 17, at the American Legion Home in Highland, with Georgia Pollard and Betty Leroy as hostesses. There were 19 present.

The business meeting was conducted by Marjorie Rosenthal, retiring chapeau from New Douglas.

Judy Zimmerman, departmental laconierge, reported on the LaMarche (convention) held in Champaign in August. The theme for the new year will be "Trains" and Zimmerman was presented a gift of a train ornament from the partners of Salon 53.

Virginia Egan of St. Clair Salon 148, a special guest, was elected Central Division National demi-chapeau at the National LaMarche held in Phoenix.

The national theme, "Five Golden Rings of Opportunity," will stress the children and youth program and nurses scholarship.

Egan announced a total of $2,500 was donated to the Gateway Chapter of Cystic Fibrosis by the salons of Illinois. Irene Schneek, Nurses Scholarship chairman, collected $13 for the project. It was announced that two scholarships were awarded in Illinois by the national organization.

Florence Horn of Alton won the attendance prize.

Two new members were given the obligation of partnership by Dorothy Hinson, past departmental chapeau. They were: Dorothy Bergrath of Venice-Madison and Lucille Kormeyer of Alhambra.

Planning to attend the fall souvenir in Oakbrook on Oct. 25, 26 and 27 are Zimmerman, Rosenthal and Pollard.

Installation of officers was conducted by Zimmerman, assisted by Leroy. Installed for 1991-92 were: Pollard, chapeau; Highland: Shirley Landolt, demi-chapeau premier, Alhambra; Elsie Vieregge, demi chapeau deuxième; Bethalto; Dorothy Hinson, laconcière, Madison; Norma Hillmer, laconcière, Madison; Florence Horn, l'aumonier, Alton; Rosenthal, l'archiviste and pouvoir member, New Douglas; and Martha Maynard, laconcière, Wood River.

Pollard conducted the remainder of the meeting. Donations were made to the American Legion, Child Welfare Foundation, the departmental chapeau's special project, and to the Chapeau Travel Fund.

The members will make stuffed toys and pillows to be given to the Gateway Chapeau of Cystic Fibrosis in November for a Christmas party.

A $50 donation was voted to the Nurses Scholarship program. More will be given throughout the year. A goal of $250 per member is set.

An ad was approved in the Madison-Bond County schedule book for the 1992 year.

A brown bag auction in August yielded $58.25 for the Bed Dedication Fund at the National Jewish Center in Denver.

Those attending the meeting from this area were: Hinson, Hillmer, Frances Cowley, Lorelei Ziegler, Bergrath and Kenneth Hinson, a guest.

Walk for life — The Metro East Crisis Pregnancy Center hosts its 4th annual Walk-A-Thon at Wilson Park Sept. 21. More than 500 people — including 114 registered walkers — attended. Thirty-eight churches were also represented. Some $9,000 was raised for the Crisis Pregnancy Center.

Early Halloween for ill girl

Halloween came early for a 5-year-old girl from Murfreesboro, Tenn., as she visited the Business Office at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

Jessica Sellers, great-granddaughter of volunteer Bill Herman, was at the medical center on a pleasure trip. She was "trick or treating" the Business Office, visiting her pen pal for the first time, but more than that she was having fun.

This trip was not at all like trips to the hospital she had to make over the summer.

"The first part of June she went into the hospital for a tonsillectomy," Herman said. "The doctor sent what he thought was an infected tonsil to the lab to be tested."

"It turned out to be lymphoma. She began chemotherapy treatments later that same month, and has to travel 35 miles to Nashville for her treatments every two weeks."

"The doctors don't allow her to travel much," he said. "This was her first visit to me since her illness started, and she shouldn't have made it because she was running a temperature when she got home."

Jessica must undergo treatment for six months before she is released to determine the status of her condition.

Saddened by Jessica's illness, Herman mentioned it to the associates in the office, and Sandy Kirksey, insurance clerk, took special interest.

"Sandy sent her Raggedy Ann and Andy dolls and began writing her letters," Herman said. "Jessica was thrilled to have someone to write to. Then later, the whole office sent her a card, and Jessica wanted to thank them in person."

That was the purpose of this late-summer visit.

"When Bill told me about Jessica, it really touched me," Kirksey said. "I guess it was because I lost a daughter when she was three and had open heart surgery. I really love kids."

"I thought about it and prayed about it, then one day I asked Bill if he thought it would be OK for me to write her. I told her I wanted to write her again," she said.

That's when the pen pal relationship began. Jessica sent Kirksey a photograph and a card that she keeps on her desk.

"I've always wanted to have a pen pal and, after 41 years, I finally have one," Kirksey said. "She has really touched my heart. Most of us in this office know what it's like to go through what she is going through."

"Many of us have family members who have cancer, and some of us have had children who have been seriously ill. It's easier to reach out when you've gone through similar situations."

Jessica's letters have meant a lot to Kirksey. "It brings tears to my eyes when I get something in the mail from her," she said. "I got involved because it makes me happy."

Library offers information service

An important part of service at the Granite City District Library, 2001 Delmar, is the information service, according to Jeanette Kampen, assistant director.

The reference department at the main library receives thousands of requests for information each year. Requests are made in person, by telephone or even through the mail.

If needed information cannot be found in the collection of materials at the Granite City library, the staff has access through interlibrary loan to the resources of many other libraries.

Examples of typical information requests are:

- Instructions for making a birdhouse for purple martins.
- Poems suitable for a Mother's Day program.
- Wiring diagram for a 1985 Oldsmobile Cutlass.

- Information about the paintings and inventions of Leonardo da Vinci.
- Formula for changing Celsius (centigrade) temperature to Fahrenheit temperature.

- Words and music to the song "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes."
- Spelling of "mostaccioli."

- Information on the California gold rush for a high school term paper.
- Origin of the World War II slogan "Kilroy was here."
- Recipe for funnel cake.

- Address and name of president of Sears, Roebuck and Co.

No library can answer every reference question; however, every question received at the Granite City District Library's information desk is given full consideration.

The main library's hours from September through May are: Monday through Thursday, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.; and Friday and Saturday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. The telephone number for reference service is 452-6241.

When the library is closed, those needing answers to questions may call the Night Owl Reference Service at the number given above. Hours for Night Owl are: Monday through Friday, 9 p.m. to midnight; and Saturday and Sunday, 5 p.m. to midnight.

Answering Life's Questions.

Mannequins aiding CPR training here

Twenty-five new associates joined the staff at St. Elizabeth Medical Center in September. They take their job lying down and don't talk back.

Their names, Actar 911. Their hours, flexible. Their job description, to assist others in learning resuscitation.

Actar 911s are robot-like mannequins which may make learning cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) easier for associates at SEMC.

Education Resources purchased the mannequins from Actar Air Force Inc. in Toronto, Canada, in order to upgrade the CPR program currently being used at the medical center.

The program currently in effect allows nurses to take an all-day class to become CPR certified (the first phase) or they may meet with a certified instructor on their unit (the second phase). However, there still are a number of nurses who need the opportunity to practice by themselves.

Nurses will be given study manuals, and will watch a videotape of the correct way to apply CPR. After they practice on the mannequin, they will take a written exam and meet with a certified instructor for their testing.

They will be certified only after they have been tested on a full-sized mannequin.

Although the Actars are being made available to nurses at first, other associates at SEMC will be able to use them later.

As soon as policies and procedures have been written, the program should be implemented in December, giving Education Resources the appropriate amount of time to make every detail of the program operate smoothly, a spokesman said.

Seniors plan games

The Granite City Council of Seniors will hold its meeting and an afternoon of games on Sunday, Oct. 6, at the Granite City Township Hall, 2060 Delmar Ave.

The doors will open at 12:30 p.m. and the refreshments will be served at 1 p.m.

Berniece Mercer, president, invites new members to attend and join the club. Dues are $1 a year.

Warriors hound Flyers all the way

By Dave Whaley
Staff writer

The Warrior football team wanted no part of a moral victory.

But like it or not, that's what they came away with Friday at Clyde Jordan Stadium. Granite City scared the living daylight out of the East St. Louis Flyers before falling short in a 31-19 decision.

And the game was closer than the score indicated. The Warriors (4-1 overall, 2-1 in the Southwestern Conference) scored two touchdowns in a wild and woolly fourth quarter and got the ball back with 1:36 left, and only a clipping penalty on a long interception return by Damon Yates kept them from getting the ball in Flyer territory.

The Flyers snuffed that final drive and then scored on the final play of the game to add a little insurance.

"I can't be happy with a loss," said Warrior coach Tom Wyroski, who was in a hurry to get on the bus and scout Edwardsville, this week's opponent. "How can I feel good when we got our butts beat?"

Well, it wasn't that bad. The last four games between these two teams had seen the Flyers outscore the Warriors 174-6. East St. Louis (4-1, 2-0 in the SWC) was too mistake-prone and Granite City was too gritty to let anything like that happen Friday.

The Flyers committed five turnovers and had nine penalties for 63 yards. Still, it said something for the Warriors that they turned the ball over four times themselves and were still in it until the end.

"I hope our guys didn't take Granite City lightly," said Flyer coach Bob Shannon. "I know we were ahead of this team 42-0 at halftime last year. But we have to realize we did that with a few guys who aren't here anymore."

One guy who is still here is senior running back Chris Moore. Though it seemed at times that the Warriors were doing a fairly good job of containing him, he still racked up 180 yards on 26 carries and three touchdowns. Moore and receiver Dennis Stallings were the entire East St. Louis offense. East St. Louis had minus 8 yards rushing other than Moore, and Stallings five catches for 110 yards (two touchdowns) accounted for all the passing yardage.

"We couldn't afford to make mistakes and give them big plays, but we did," said Wyroski.

Ellis Van Buskirk gave the Warriors a 6-0 lead with a four-yard touchdown run halfway through the first quarter after Corey Dent had intercepted Drake Marshall but fumbled on the return. Larry Earney recovered for the Warriors.

The Flyers came right back on Moore's 45-yard touchdown run on fourth-and-2 with 2:32 left in the quarter. After Yates fumbled on the second play after the kickoff, quarterback Deondre Singleton (3 for 13, 110 yards, two interceptions) hit Stallings with a 41-yard touchdown pass into a strong wind.

Warrior quarterback Drake Marshall hands off to Mike Vaughn as the line, led by center Jeff Heuschman, blocks the East St. Louis Flyers during Friday's game at Clyde Jordan Stadium. Granite City plays in Edwardsville at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

Marshall in the third quarter and returned it 36 yards to the Warrior 14, from where Moore scored on the next play. After Granite City punted, the Flyers went 56 yards in 12 plays, including nine straight runs by Moore.

Then came the killer. On fourth-and-12, Singleton's pass for Stallings appeared to be underthrown. Warrior cornerback Chris Peeler got his hands on it, but he bounced up and Stallings was able to haul it in falling down in the end zone to make it 25-6 with 1:48 left in the third quarter.

After David James intercepted a Marshall pass with 9:11 left in the game, it appeared to be a closed case. But Peeler intercepted Singleton two minutes later and returned it 25 yards. A personal foul on the Flyers put the Warriors on the 9 and Marshall (10 for 18, 67 yards) hit Larry Curry with a quick slant for a touchdown with 5:19 left to make it 25-12.

Nathaniel Robinson then fumbled on the first play after the kickoff.

Turnovers have haunted us all year," said Shannon. "It wasn't a well-played game on our part."

A pass interference call gave the Warriors a first down at the 14, and five plays later Marshall ran it in on a great play fake from four yards out. Van Buskirk's extra point made it 25-19 with 3:11 still left.

"Granite City is as good as advertised," said Shannon. "They played a strong game on defense and shut us down."

The Flyers recovered an onside kick and appeared to be able to run out the clock. But incredibly, Singleton threw a bomb into the end zone and Yates intercepted. He returned the ball up the sidelines all the way to the Flyer 35, but a clipping penalty sent the Warriors back to their 30 with 1:36 left. Van Buskirk got his hands on one deep pass, but the Warriors lost yardage on the other three downs, and Moore's final touchdown was just icing on the cake.

"We were very lucky to win this game," said Shannon. "But our defense stiffened when the game was on the line and put us in a position to win the game."

Brewer, Warriors win SWC tourney

There were several heroes during the regular season, so it was no surprise when another team effort landed the Warrior golf team the Southwestern Conference golf tournament Thursday.

Four Warriors shot 78 or better as Granite City edged Belleville East by four strokes (204-208). The Lancers had won the regular-season title with a 32-2 regular-season mark.

"Beating East might make us the second-best team in the area. East deserves to be first. They've got a good team."

There has been no one stand-out player for the Warriors, but if one had to be chosen it would be senior Joe Brewer. He shot a 73 Thursday to break two school records for the best 18-hole round and best score in a conference meet. The old Granite City record for 18 holes was 74. Brewer defeated Torre Tribuiti, East, in a playoff to become the individual conference champion.

"At the beginning of the season I was going for the average record (38.1), but I'll take these two any day of the week," said Brewer. "I'd never been in a playoff before. I know it wasn't for a trophy, but it's the mental thing, knowing that you won."

Joe's a loose player, and that's why he has played so well," said Chappell. "He's able to take it easy, but he's a real scrambler away well."

Tournament begins 2nd decade as star-studded as ever

By Dave Whaley
Staff writer

As the Tournament of Champions begins its second decade, the event is as star-studded as ever. The top eight teams in this week's Suburban Journals soccer coaches poll will all participate in the Pepsi-Cola/Granite City High School/Lotto Tournament of Champions beginning Monday. All teams who have won the tournament at least once in its 10-year history will be there, including the defending champion Warriors.

Granite City senior goalie Tim Henson, the MVP of last year's tournament, will lead the Warriors (8-1-3) in search of another title.

But it won't be easy. The field is loaded as always, with three defending state champions. Along with the Warriors, Missouri large (SLUH) and small school (Aquinas/Mercy) state champions from 1990 are on hand.

The favorite going in is probably Vianney (10-1). The Griffins have been No. 1 in the poll since winning the CBC Tournament the second

Unbeaten streak 10; shutout string four

The Warriors extended their shutout streak to four and their unbeaten streak to 10 with a 3-0 whitewashing of Belleville East on Thursday.

Granite City got goals from Brent Dippel (6th), John Nizinski (1st) and Tim Henson (3rd) in blanking the Lancers for the second time in as many meetings. Henson also picked up his fourth shutout of the season. He scored the final goal when his long punt bounced in off a Lancer defender.

The Warriors have not allowed a goal since the final minute of the Belleville West game on Sept. 24. They are 4-0-2 in conference play and 8-1-3 overall heading into the Tournament of Champions.

week of the season and they have done little to hurt themselves. Vianney will try to become the first team to win the Tournament of Champions three times. Mike Villa's team won the first one in 1981 and became the first team to win it twice with a victory in 1987. The Warriors (1982 and 1990) are the only other team to win it twice.

Vianney is led by Josh Klimek, who might be the best player in the area.

"Vianney has to go in as the pre-tournament favorite," said Granite City coach Gene Baker. "But that has led to the downfall of many teams here in the past."

Chaminade might be the dark horse in Group C. They are led by forward Sage McCullar. Also in that group are Hazelwood East and Chicago Brother Rice, which made it to the Illinois state finals in 1990.

The Warriors are in Group A along with CBC, Aquinas/Mercy and Eureka. CBC was 4-1 until losing 2-1 in sudden death to the Warriors, starting a five-game losing streak. Eureka lost a lot of talent from last year's team, but returns forwards Darrin Sharp and Jeff Ray along with backs Brad Leuthauser and Tom Aieta.

Aquinas/Mercy has won three straight Missouri small school titles.

"Our group is going to be tough as always," said Baker. "But there is a lot to be gained just by playing in a tournament like this. It has to make us better no matter how we do."

An interesting team to watch in Group B is St. Louis U. High (6-4-1). The Junior Bills headed into Friday's game with CBC needing only two wins for coach Ebbie Dunn to tie the national record (571). SLUH has struggled so far despite the presence of forward Jeremy Moore, a potential All-American. SLUH is in with Smith/Cotton of Sedalia, Mo., Hazelwood Central and O'Fallon.

Group D has three teams which have won the tournament before in DeSmet, McCluer North and Rosary. Oakville rounds out that group. DeSmet is 9-2 and ranked second in the Journal poll. Matt McKeon is a captain on the national Under 18 team and midfielder Harry Weiss has All-American potential.

Video producers make self-help tapes

Part of film battle plan for combating anxiety: low-impact aerobics

By Mason Wiley
Correspondent

The stress of modern life has provided a cottage industry for video producers who bring out self-help tapes to help us mortals cope. The two latest, and disparate, examples of this trend are "Morgan Fairchild's Stress Management" (1991, Wood Knapp Video, $19.95, 800-331-6839) and "Ultimate Survivor: Winning Against Incredible Odds" (1991, Calibre Press Inc., $59.95, 800-323-0037).

Both videos begin with warnings that make a viewer wary of what's to follow. Fairchild's "creators, producers, participants and distributors" disclaim any liabilities or loss in connection with the exercise and advice herein. The opening of "Survivors" is even more grim: "This program contains graphic photographs of severe injuries. We can't wait."

The hour-long Fairchild video is the far happier of the two, taking place in the garden of a Beverly Hills mansion and in front of some picturesque California mountains. "Although we think of stress as a modern disorder, it's always been an element of man's existence," says Fairchild, who appeared in "Falcon Crest" and "Pee Wee's Big Adventure."

Fairchild goes on to list her battle plan for combating anxiety: low-impact aerobics, Tai Chi (sort of a slow-motion aerobic) and massage.

"They've worked wonders for me," she says. With her silky smooth voice, Fairchild narrates the aerobics demonstration by three attractive models. Then she moves on to something called "the chair routine," which she says "allows you to relax and relieve office-related stress right in the comfort of your own chair."

After the exercises, Anthony Reading, who holds a doctoral degree and is in charge of stress-management studies at University of California—Los Angeles, tells how to discharge tension through sitting quietly, breathing regularly, focusing on a repetitive thought or image and passively disregarding competing or intrusive thoughts.

In other words, how to space out.

We see Reading perform his "progressive muscular relaxation" on a patient, a comely blonde in a miniskirt, by talking her into a state that makes her appear hypnotized.

"Ultimate Survivor," an 89-minute video made by a firm that teaches police officers how to deal with trauma, attempts to teach "survival skills" to civilians by recreating horrible real-life experiences of four cops, then showing their inspirational readjustments.

Our host is William Shatner, who begins portentously, "None of the people you'll meet was a hero or was superhuman when crisis struck, yet on the brink of death they found true strategies and became... ultimate survivors."

No doubt about it, their stories are remarkable, but incredibly lurid. The restagings of fights and shoot-outs are done in bloody, brutal detail, often depicted in slow motion so they can be savored like instant replay in a football game.

Adding to the sensationalistic tone are the biased descriptions of the cops' assailants—"a 23-year-old unemployed dishwasher," "a career criminal for over 25 years," "a 33-year-old cocktail waitress," "a 33-year-old ex-con and bank robber" and a "woman-abuser."

In one instance, a police officer's face is blown away by a shotgun wielded by a crazed traffic violator, and we are treated to pictures of him in the emergency room afterwards. He is put back together by an oral-maxillofacial surgeon who himself has no legs, and he emerges with a new face.

Another police officer suffers from severe burns when he's trapped in his inferno-like patrol car after an accident caused by a speeding drunk.
